

Fact Sheet

Prisoner Operations

2015

- ▶ The U.S. Marshals Service is responsible for the custody of federal prisoners beginning at the time of arrest and ending when prisoners are acquitted, arrive at a designated Federal Bureau of Prisons facility to serve a sentence or are otherwise ordered released from Marshals custody.
- ▶ The Marshals Service ensures the safe, humane care and custody of approximately 204,000 federal prisoners each year.
- ▶ The agency provides housing, medical care and transportation for an average daily population of about 55,000 federal prisoners throughout the U.S. and its territories and produces prisoners for all court-ordered appearances.

| Fiscal 2014 Data | |
|--|----------------|
| Total expenditures for federal prisoners in U.S. Marshals custody* | $1.42 billion |
| Total average daily detention population | 55,330 |
| • State and local facilities | 33,299 |
| • Federal Bureau of Prison facilities | 10,647 |
| • Private facilities (contracted) | 11,164 |
| • Medical facilities | 220 |
| Prisoners received | 203,699 |
| Agreements with state and local governments for use of detention space | approx. 1,800 |
| Contracts with privately managed detention facilities | 15 |
| Average daily rate paid per prisoner | $76.24 |

*Funded by Federal Prisoner Detention appropriation (separate from U.S. Marshals Service appropriation)

Prisoner Custody

- ▶ The Marshals Service brings all individuals arrested on federal offenses before a U.S. magistrate or U.S. District Court judge for their initial court appearances. The court determines if they are to be released on bond or remanded into the custody of the Marshals Service to await trial. If convicted at the conclusion of the case, the Marshals Service delivers prisoners to the designated Federal Bureau of Prisons institution to serve their sentence.
- ▶ The Marshals Service does not disclose any personal information, location held, court scheduling, transportation details or other inmate information, other than to verify an inmate is in federal custody.
- ▶ Prisoner mug shots (booking photos) cannot be released for privacy reasons. (For the full policy, see www.usmarshals.gov/foia/policy/booking_photos.pdf.)
- ▶ The task of holding federal prisoners presents challenges that are diverse and complex, such as:
 - Finding bed space near federal courthouses to house federal prisoners
 - Coordinating with federal, state and local authorities about writs, court orders and transferring prisoners between the various levels of the criminal justice system

- Keeping multiple co-defendant prisoners separated from each other, often times under court order, for safe and secure care and custody
- Managing prisoners with contagious diseases and terminal illnesses

Prisoner Housing

- ▶ The Marshals Service does not own or operate detention facilities but partners with state and local governments through more than 1,800 intergovernmental agreements that are used to house more than 33,000 prisoners throughout the U.S. and its territories. In addition, the agency contracts with 15 private facilities to house more than 11,000 prisoners and the Federal Bureau of Prisons to house an additional 10,000 prisoners.
- ▶ The Marshals Service annually reviews facilities that house federal prisoners to ensure the safe, secure and humane care and custody of those prisoners.

Prisoner Medical Care

- ▶ The Marshals Service provides medically-necessary health care to prisoners within its custody.
- ▶ The agency is limited to paying Medicare rates for the medical services provided to its prisoners, per 18 U.S. Code § 4006.

Prisoner Forecasting

- ▶ The Marshals Service monitors the federal detention population and prisoner movement throughout the court process and tracks law enforcement and prosecutorial initiatives that affect the federal detention population and the need for detention space.
- ▶ The agency develops statistical models and simulations to forecast future requirements and potential impacts of legislation, law-enforcement policy initiatives and emerging law-enforcement trends.